FROM THE ARCHIVES

Maria G. "Chata" Sada is described by many as "Big Bend's Most Famous Restraunteur". Sada, along with her husband, Juan, owned and operated a restaurant and general store in the small settlement of Boquillas, Texas (now Rio Grande Village) sitting alongside the Eastern edge of Big Bend National Park. Learn more about Chata Sada's legacy and her impact on our region on the National Park Service's website or by attending the Big Bend Pioneer Reunion on February 7th in the UC Espino Center.
